Hello Cricut Team,

I'm applying for the AI Engineering Lead role. I live in Utah, and building AI features into products that people use to make things is exactly what I'd like to do next.

At Coordinator I shipped AI features into a client-facing web app: a voice messaging feature, LLM features, and a data-access gateway that grew into an app store. I also built the fine-tuning and serving pipelines behind them and the CI/CD that gated every release. I work agentic-first every day, and I pay close attention to the tradeoffs in latency, cost and quality. Before that I was founder and CTO of Ralli and Lancer, where I led small teams of developers, set the technical direction and wrote production code myself.

I haven't shipped AI image generation or MCP integrations, and I've led as a CTO rather than as a manager of managers. I'd be glad to talk about how I could lead this team.
