Jack Sturtevant
jack@sturt.io

Hello Hightouch Team,

I'm applying for the Full Stack Product Engineer role. I like building the interface that lets someone who isn't technical use something powerful without having to think about it.

I've built most of my products from zero to one. At Lancer I was founder and CTO of a freelance platform built on Next.js, tRPC, and Prisma and led a 7-person team. At Banger I built a trading platform end to end in 8 weeks as interim CTO, and as a freelancer I built real-time dashboards and price charts in React. At Applied Intuition I built a customer-facing license dashboard that helped close multi-million-dollar deals. Most recently at Coordinator I built an app platform with a template registry and per-app storage, plus agent tools and voice features for a production LLM product. I wrote the Go side of that work and the TypeScript around it.

I haven't worked in marketing tech, so I'd be learning how marketers work. I'd be glad to talk about how I could help build Hightouch's product.

Jack Sturtevant