Hello MX Team,

I'm applying for the Senior Solution Architect role with a builder's background. The posting asks for 6+ years in solutions architecture or a customer-facing technical role, and I haven't held that title or worked in formal pre-sales, so that gap comes first.

What I have is seven years of designing and building end-to-end systems and a record of working with customers. At Applied Intuition I built a customer-facing license dashboard that helped close multiple million-dollar deals, and automated support so response times fell from over a day to under an hour. At Coordinator I designed a Go data gateway for third-party apps, with scoped, revocable tokens, rate limits, and an audit log, that grew into an app store. As a founder I built payments, APIs, and data flows, and I made the tradeoffs myself.

I can explain a technical design to an engineer or an executive. I'd be glad to talk about whether my background fits what your team needs.
