Hello Twilio Team,

I'm applying for the Senior Presales Engineer role. The posting asks for someone who can understand a customer's communications needs, guide them to a technical solution, and explain it to every level of the room. As a two-time founder/CTO I've done that from both sides of the table.

At Applied Intuition I built a license dashboard showing customers' product usage that helped close multiple million-dollar deals, and a Zendesk automation that cut support response time from over a day to under an hour. This year at Coordinator I benchmarked self-hosted speech engines and shipped voice messaging in the web app, and at Ralli I built real-time WebSocket updates and notifications.

I haven't held a formal presales title or worked in telecom or SIP; my customer-facing work has come from founding companies and building for customers directly. I'd be glad to talk about how I could help Twilio's presales team.
